

Welcome to the Museum

Here is the story of the Ten Mile River from the original people to present day Scouts. Now celebrating its 25th anniversary, the Ten Mile River Scout Museum is operated by the Greater New York Councils, Scouts USA, and is dedicated to preserving the history and artifacts of the TMR Scout Camps and the local area.

The reserve has been serving Scouts from New York City since 1927. Located at TMR's Headquarters Camp, the museum consists of a main building, Kernochan Blockhouse, Karl Bernstein Cayuga/Kotohke Cabin, and Kunatah Trading Post. It is open to the public and offers various tours, indoor exhibits and outdoor programs.

Ten Mile River Scout Museum

Featured in 2022:

- An archeological exhibit from three excavation sites at the Ten Mile River Tusten Settlement from the 1750s to the early 1800s. Display includes 15 different types of pottery and china from 308 artifacts recovered.
- Tuesday evening history talks in the open-air Cayuga/Kotohke Cabin at 7:00 p.m. in July and August. Open to Scouts and the public. Topics include: "Tales of the Raftsmen," "Local Ghost Stories" and "The Nature of TMR." Troops planning campfires or overnights can arrange for one of these programs on a different night.
- Alumni Weekend from August 12 to 14 for everyone who has worked, camped or loved TMR in previous years.
- Car Show on Saturday, August 13 – old, new, vintage, classic, the best on four wheels!

Museum Tour (60 minutes)

First-time visitors typically go on a tour of the museum beginning with a short video on the origin of Ten Mile River Scout Camps.

See memorabilia from all the camps created by the five boroughs of NYC. Other exhibits include: local geology, rock shelters, the Tusten Donut Farm, the Slide Farm, birds of prey and a record of all living things from the 2014 Upper Delaware BioBlitz.

Kernochan Blockhouse

Visit a two-level pioneer-era (1750s) reproduction miniature blockhouse. It contains copies of common items that were typically kept during the pioneering era. Here is an introduction into how blockhouses were used and what pioneer life was like along the Upper Delaware River.

Cayuga/Kotohke Cabin

A recreation of life in an actual Brooklyn Scout Camps open-air cabin from the 1930s and 1940s, complete with cots and straw ticks. Oversized photos depict cabins and tents from this era. A ten-minute video shows what camping was like in the Brooklyn Scout Camps. The display includes backpacks, kerosene lamps and other artifacts from typical camp life.

C.C.C. Camp Ten Mile River Walking Tour (60+min.)

A short video on the history of the Civilian Conservation Corps (C.C.C.) will describe this depression-era public relief and conservation program that made major physical improvements at TMR during the 1930s.

A walking tour will take individuals to the sites of key buildings of the C.C.C. Camp Ten Mile River, which operated from 1933-36. The marked sites lead on a short walk around Headquarters Camp, ending at the museum. The tour guidebook shows the tour route and includes history and photos for each stop.

TRADING POST

The museum store has a huge variety of Boy Scout memorabilia at low prices. Items include Scouting posters and literature, patches, neckerchiefs, campaign style hats, hiking sticks, bolo ties, Norman Rockwell plates, mugs, O.A. sashes, C.S.P.s, handbooks and magazines, old uniform, Jamboree and Philmont neckerchiefs. The $1 bin of patches contains treasures for all who look. Purchases benefit the museum. Donations are appreciated.

Specially for Scouts

Picnic Facilities – The museum grounds include three charcoal stoves, four picnic tables, drinking fountains, and clean-up sink. Units can arrange with their camp program director to have a bag lunch or evening barbecue.

Museum Historian Patch – This patch can be earned by completing requirements of a one-hour program including the video on the origins of TMR, a trivia scavenger hunt, and a visit to the recreated “Eight Scout” cabin.

Ten Mile River Historical Trails Award – Scouts can earn this award medal and patch with a 10-mile hike from their camp to the museum. For full requirements and information, contact the museum.

Merit Badges – Scouts can get partial credit (good for one year), and in some cases complete the following merit badges with the museum staff: Archeology, Indian Lore, Journalism, and Scout Heritage. Preregistration is required. For specific classes, contact the museum.

Outdoor Programs – The museum offers outdoor programs for Scouts, including: a “Blind Man’s Maze” to experience visual impairment, campfire ring, volleyball, badminton and horseshoes.

TMR Scout Museum is a high adventure outpost and requires Scout Troops to sign up with their camp’s program director.
