

TMR STAFF NECKERCHIEFS AND STAND ALONE PATCHES

FROM SAME ERA (1947-1969)

Ten Mile River opened for camping the summer of 1928 but until 1947 neither TMR itself nor any of its component camps used staff neckerchiefs. The first camp to have one was Camp Manhattan in 1947 and again in 1948. Soon the phenomenon caught on and by 1949 most of the individual camps had their own Staff neckerchiefs and by 1950 they basically all did. The last year for TMR sanctioned official individual camp staff neckerchiefs was 1961. Beginning in 1962 the same staff neckerchiefs were used by ALL the component camps on the reservation although a couple of camps made their own unofficial ones. The last sequential year was 1969 for the reservation wide staff neckerchiefs. In the 1970's the reservation had staff neckerchiefs in 1972, 1973, 1978. By 1980 they were gone for good, replaced in the 70's by staff tee-shirts.

The challenge of collecting staff neckerchiefs.

1. Camps issued staff neckerchiefs with patches sewn on the neckerchiefs as well as some silkscreened. These are all official camp staff neckerchiefs
2. Some of the patches were issued off the neckerchief and staff men were told to sew it on a particular neckerchief or in some cases any neckerchief. They are still official, when documented.
3. But there is then a “hodgepodge” of people who sewed official patches on Non official neckerchiefs and others who sewed unofficial patches on official tartans and some who sewed an unofficial patch on an unofficial tartan which are considered private issues or unofficial. I have endeavored for over 30 years to document neckerchiefs that we list as official. In some cases neckerchiefs are clearly not official and should not be part of a complete staff neckerchief collection. In other cases in my view the documentation is adequate to call them official. Then there are some that we just do not know. They are given a letter “Y” in their code to indicate there is not enough documentation to call them official but nothing to call them private issues or unofficial either.
4. 4. Lastly, the code: prefix SN indicates staff neckerchief. 2nd 2 or 3 letters indicate the name of the camp. Next to that is the chronological order of issue. A letter “Y” indicates insufficient documentation to call them official. Lastly, the year of issue. If year is preceded by a “Y” it means insufficient documentation to label it official.
5. Example: SNKU-03-1952 means Kunatah staff neckerchief, 3rd one issued by Kunatah and issued in 1952. If we were not sure of documentation a “Y” would have been inserted before 1952

Camp Aquehonga

In 1949 the staff of Camp Aquehonga realized they were “late to the party” in the sense that many other camps had created staff neckerchiefs. One of the key staff realized all the staff members were also brothers in Aquehongian Lodge so he got each staff member the OA patch of the time, the R1, a round 3 inch patch and told them to put it on a white or red neckerchief, the two principle colors of the patch, which would be their official staff neckerchief. At least two staffers put it on plaid neckerchiefs. Perhaps they did not have red or white or just wanted to stand out. The first three Camp Aquehonga staff neckerchiefs are shown as #s 1,2,3.

4 BSA neckerchiefs with TMR embroidered are identified as TMR Headquarters Staff Neckerchiefs. PROBABLE YEARS 1949-1953 years and order of issue not confirmed

Four BSA neckerchiefs with TMR embroidered into them are identified as TMR Headquarters neckerchiefs used between 1949 and 1953. It is believed the purple neckerchief was used first and may have been used more than one year. While it is confirmed that one or more were used by Headquarters staff, none of the years or orders of issue are confirmed. Below is a possible scenario.

In 1958 the Ihpetonga dining hall was not used and Jamboree style feeding was introduced at Camp Ihpetonga without notice. It did not go over well and most of the scheduled units pulled out or asked to be transferred and they were dispersed to other camps on the reservation. Ron Stinglin was the assistant camp director under Frank Kafka. He was assigned to Aquichonga and Stillwaters in July. But then Atlantic District Brooklyn made a huge fuss and threatened not to come to camp if they couldn't go to Ihpetonga. It was reconstituted with Ron as the Director. It was too late to make staff neckerchiefs for the staff so he made 6 homemade ones for the KEY staff (reason for the Key). This is one of the 6 and the only 1958 Ihpetonga staff neckerchief for that year.

Camp Nianque

Camp Ranachqua, the Bronx borough camp produced 4 different staff neckerchiefs in 1954 when they did away with Units A, C, and E. They were replaced with Ranachqua HQ, Nianque and Stillwaters respectively. A blue neckerchief showing a hawk with wings spread (see SNRA-08-1954 page 23) was used as the overall camp neckerchief by those representing all the camps. One each of the other three was used by Headquarters, one by Nianque and one by Stillwaters. It is not known which was used in which camp so the Indian profile which appears on the other three neckerchiefs has been randomly assigned to HQ, Nianque and Stillwaters.

Beginning in 1962, all individual camp neckerchiefs were eliminated and replaced by one staff neckerchief used by all camps on the TMR Reservation. They were a solid color with a fdl on them. Not shown are the 1962-1965 Counsellor in Training neckerchiefs (CIT) because they are the same as the staff neckerchief without a FDL. The CITs were not considered staff, merely trainees. They had to EARN their FDL to be on STAFF.

CIT Neckerchiefs

In 1961, Wint Hartmann decided to do away with individual camp staff neckerchiefs and have instead a universal TMR Scout Camp neckerchief for use of all staff on the reservation. The concept was ONE CAMP-ONE STAFF.

In 1962 the first neckerchiefs with fdl's were introduced. (See section above.)

It was a plain light blue neckerchief with a yellow fdl patch. CIT, Counselors-in-training, were given a blank blue neckerchief same as the regular staff neckerchief but without the fdl. The thinking was they had to earn their fdl.

STAND ALONE PATCHES FROM STAFF NECKERCHIEF ERA

The Staff Neckerchief era begins in 1947. Prior to that there was only the TMR 3 inch round red Staff patch. When Staff neckerchiefs were introduced in 1947 (Camp Manhattan) and all through the era of Staff Neckerchiefs which ended essentially in 1969 although there were some outliers for Keowa-1970, TMR-1972, TMR-1973, TMR-1978 the staff neckerchief distinguished who was a staffman while the 3 inch round red pocket patch further identified staffmen. Probably half the staff neckerchiefs of that era were done with silkscreen printing and the other half were a patch sewn on the neckerchief. For one reason or another patches were taken off neckerchiefs, put on other neckerchiefs, extras patches were sometimes sold to staff members. We do not consider these patches to be a different issue because they were removed from their original neckerchief. However, a few patches were made even though a corresponding staff neckerchief existed, and were never intended to be on a neckerchief. These are the ones seen below.
