BASIC/BORDER TWILL PATCHES

Notes on Border Patches

People collecting basic/border patches will notice the same patch, with the same multiple colors. If they have more than one, the two patches may have a different arrangement or orientation. There is no significance to this arrangement as they were just processed order by order without consideration as to where to colors went as long as they had all the correct colors requested in the order. This was true for those made of felt (1938-1952) and those of cotton twill (1952-1972).

To collect a set of twill patches you would need to collect one combination of each for a total of 17, or not counting basic and staff patches, 15 with colors. Of course one color can only be one color but once you get into 2 or more it grows almost geometrically.

For example 2 color twills: the 6 possibilities are red/blue, red/orange, red/green/ blue/green and blue/orange and green orange.

This is reasonable to collect but if you collected those with a color on top (6) and another set with the same color
